

I think that tests prove that using power line to transmit broad band signals would result in making the frequencies 2 MHZ to 80 MHZ useless for ham radio communications. The proposal to use power line transmissions of broad band signals should be rejected.